SPECIAL ANNIVERSARY ISSUE

EM this month is commemorating A&WMA’s Centennial with a series of articles that focus on the history of air quality management, including a look at the history of controlling railroad smoke through regulation, education, and technology; the significance of Pittsburgh in American air pollution history; and motor vehicle pollution control in the United States. Also, don’t miss the special four-page pullout celebrating A&WMA’s history with highlights from a century of environmental stewardship.

A Summary of the 2007 Critical Review—Will the Circle Be Unbroken: A History of the U.S. National Ambient Air Quality Standards by John Bachmann, principal, Vision Air Consulting, formerly Associate Director for Science/Policy and New Programs, Office of Air Quality Planning and Standards, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

The 2007 Critical Review coincides with the celebration of A&WMA’s 100th anniversary and examines more than 100 years of U.S. air pollution history in an effort to illuminate how we arrived at the particular approaches to managing air quality reflected in the Clean Air Act.
